The AIG Talbot difference in action – Client case studies

Optimal client experience drives our execution and priorities

Issue

A U.S.-based multinational food and beverage manufacturer needed local policies issued in certain countries as an extension to its existing global policy in order to align with local regulations, tax and claims requirements.

Solution

AIG Talbot's market-leading multinational servicing capabilities, global network, and technical expertise supported timely policy issuance within the specified countries.

Why is this important?

Industry expertise and experience, combined with extensive regulatory knowledge across AIG's global network, gave the client peace of mind that local coverage was appropriate for their risk and conformed with local requirements.

Issue

A prominent retail broker needed support with implementing a captive fronting solution for one of its largest automotive clients.

Solution

AIG's captive fronting team provided guidance on the alternative risk transfer options available, as well as the essential components and considerations of each. The collaborative approach taken by AIG and Talbot ensured that a customized, robust, and responsive captive program was established.

Why is this important?

Proactive engagement and a collaborative approach with our captive specialists ensured efficient implementation of a customized program and provided one of our key trading partners with a viable solution for its client.
